Fund manager's commentary

Financial markets last quarter of 2023 delivered a much-needed Christmas present. Growing investor sentiment that central banks will cut interest rates sooner in 2024 than previously expected resulted in great returns both for equities and fixed income. The top performing sectors were high yield and Eurozone government debt which delivered 8.21% and 7.19% returns accordingly. In equities US outperformed driven by growth stocks that are most sensitive to changes in expected interest rates.
